1. Have a volunteering policy that defines the roles and limitations of volunteering within the organisation.

2. Make it clear whether human resources policies apply to both staff and volunteers or to volunteers or to staff only.

3. Appoint a designated person with responsibility for volunteers to whom the volunteer has reasonable access and who will provide them with support and supervision.

4. People with a responsibility for volunteers should receive training in managing and supporting volunteers.

5. Recruit volunteers within an equal opportunities framework, so that the profile of volunteers aims to reflect that of the local community served by the organisation.

6. Advertise on the Wales volunteering opportunities database www.volunteering-wales.net. Your local volunteer centre can help you.

7. Cater for a diversity of volunteers, with different tasks and roles and different patterns and styles of support and communication. If possible provide extra support to cater for those with recognised high support needs.

8. Promote opportunities for volunteers to use the Welsh language in the course of volunteering.

9. Prepare volunteers properly for their volunteering, with an induction and training to carry out their volunteering activities.

10. Provide volunteers with access to information including a written description of their role, organisational policies, procedures and standards.

11. Ensure volunteers are clear of their responsibilities in relation to Safeguarding and that they understand your 'problem solving' procedures or 'what to do if things go wrong'.

12. Risk assess tasks undertaken by volunteers and put measures in place to reduce the possibility of harm.

13. Arrange appropriate insurance cover for volunteers; provide protective clothing and equipment as appropriate.

14. Offer full reimbursement for out of pocket expenses.

15. Boundaries between paid and unpaid roles should be clear and volunteers should not be used to substitute for paid staff.

16. Create opportunities for volunteers to give feedback and to contribute to decision making processes within the wider organisation.

17. Ensure that there are opportunities for volunteers to grow and develop in their role and offer some tangible record of their achievements.

18. Gather stories and information to demonstrate the impact of volunteering.

19. Recognise, celebrate and publicise the contribution of volunteers, both internally and externally.

20. Consider working to achieve the Investing in Volunteers standard.

This Code of Practice reflects key principles within the Investing in Volunteers Quality Standard, which can be found on the website: www.investinginvolunteer.org.uk. Originally published in January 1997 by Wales Council for Voluntary Action on behalf of the Wales Volunteering Forum, it was updated in February 2016 by the Wales Volunteering Policy Network.
